

Students who find themselves unable to complete their graduate programs within the maximum time period specified may submit a request for program extension. More than one request for extension may be submitted, but the total time for all extensions granted will not normally exceed two years.

Requests for program extensions will be decided by the student’s home Department/Program Advisory Committee. If the extension request is denied, the student may appeal to the Student Appeals Committee, the decision of which is final. A student who wishes to request a further program extension beyond the two year maximum extension limit must submit an Academic Regulations Appeal for special consideration to the Student Appeals Committee.

A student who has exceeded the maximum program extension period or whose request for program extension has been denied may apply for readmission to the graduate program. If readmitted, the student’s entire program will be reviewed, and a revised program and completion timeline will be developed.

DEADLINE: Normally, requests for extension will be submitted at least two months prior to the expiration of the program time limit.
