The Health Studies Research Unit-Check out the web

The Health Studies Research Unit on the web has a number resources to assist you with grant writing, getting through ethics, managing your research project, and publishing or presenting. One resource is a list of researchers from Health Studies that are prepared to help their colleagues through reviews of grants, publications, and/or ethics applications.

Quantitative and qualitative experts have agreed to support their colleagues in developing skills. If you would like to add your name to list of supports, shoot the Research Facilitator an email.
